Sharing out of our abundance with brothers and sisters overseas

"In Aotearoa, many Anglicans have not lost their income, and some have even saved money during this period. I encourage you to get together in families, house churches and parishes and think creatively about how you can give into these places with great need. Every one of us can support these initiatives in prayer, and if you can give financially, I encourage you to give generously."

Bishop Justin Duckworth, Bishop of Wellington
